

3 portion for co-operation with a second portion on the housing to attach the retainer to the 4 housing over the transducer;

5 wherein the housing has a recess formed therein, wherein the cover is mounted on the
6 housing over the recess, the cover and the housing together forming an acoustic duct in the 7 region of the recess.

96
cont
1 25. (Amended) A mobile telephone comprising an electronic device having a
2 housing, a cover, a transducer and a retainer for mounting the transducer on the housing, the 3 retainer including a first portion for co-operation with a second portion on the housing to 4 attach the retainer to the housing over the transducer;

5 wherein the housing has a recess formed therein, wherein the cover is mounted on the
6 housing over the recess, the cover and the housing together forming an acoustic duct in the 7 region of the recess.